EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

While the impact of Artificial Intelligence (AI) on the privacy of individuals and on society has been recognised, one critical area where it could have a major negative impact is politics and electoral campaigns. The deployment of morphed and fake images and videos, false narratives built around them, artificially created surveys and opinions, manufactured events, misinformation and distortion of facts, and the like, have all been seen since the 2014 election campaign. The Prime Minister's own party and its 'IT Cell' had led the digital campaign with the then available technologies. AI technologies would put digital campaigning on steroids and have the potential to cause untold disruption in the country's already disturbed political milieu and destroy the purity and reliability of elections. But AI could also be a leveller as far as the less well-resourced Opposition parties are concerned, and this, perhaps, Modi realises. If Jawaharlal Nehru can be denigrated with fake narratives, Modi too can now easily become a victim of deepfake pictures and videos that can be used to manipulate people's attitudes, opinions and thus their votes.

As the 2024 Lok Sabha elections approach, political parties will do well to realise the dangers of using AI technologies in campaigning. Nothing will be taboo and there will be no reservations about personal slander, calumniation of opposing parties and leaders, spread of misinformation and creation of communal and sectarian strife. Therefore, it is imperative that political parties renounce the use of deepfake technologies and other methods of mischief and misinformation in the run-up to the 2024 elections. The Prime Minister, having rightly expressed his concerns and called for regulation, must take the lead to call an all-party meeting to arrive at a formal agreement between political parties. The Election Commission, charged with conducting free and fair elections, could issue a directive or even take the initiative to convene an all-party meeting on the issue. —In Deccan Herald

This lizard defends itself with its blue tongue

New York: The blue-tongued skink, a lizard native to the Australian continent, has a rather bizarre defense mechanism – it sticks its bright-blue tongue out to predators and they actually run away, sometimes.

A subspecies of Tiliqua scincoides, the blue-tongued skink is one of only five animals known to have blue tongues, the other being the chow chow dog breed, the giraffe, the Impala, and the Okapi. However, it is the only one known for using this distinct physical feature to intimidate predators. When a blue-tongued skink feels threatened, it will start sticking out its blue tongue rapidly, and the contrasting blue tongue against the pink background of its mouth will actually make some animals think twice before attacking it. It sounds weird, but there is a logical explanation behind this unique defence strategy.

Human calculator breaks world record

Madaba: A Jordan man's speedy math skills earned him a Guinness World Record (GWR) for the fastest time to mentally count letters in 10 sentences.

Mohammad Sayaheen, 51, of Irbid, discovered his talent for fast calculation when he was in school. Sayaheen earned a Guinness World Records title by counting the number of letters in 10 sentences in 35.5 seconds. Each calculation only took him one or two seconds, but GWR rules required him to read each sentence aloud before presenting the total.

Sayaheen gained fame for the skill when he showed it off on an episode of TV series Arabs Got Talent. "I don't need any warm-up; I can instantly do these calculations first thing in the morning," Sayaheen told GWR officials.

Reserve 2 seats for seniors in city buses

Sir,

In Mysuru city buses plying to different parts of the city, there used to be two seats reserved for senior citizens. But nowadays KSRTC management seems to neglect the seniors by removing those seat reservation.

At present, a large number women are travelling in the buses and it has become very difficult for seniors to even enter the buses and very difficult to find a vacant seat.

I request the authorities concerned to reintroduce the reserve seats for senior citizens.

In fact in Bengaluru, two seats are reserved for senior citizens - men and two more for women. Also, people there allow seniors to occupy the seats reserved for them.

Camera traps at Bandipur capture images of two tigers

Forest personnel identify one tiger that had killed cowherd woman; Night combing launched

Mysuru, Nov. 27 (MTY&KS)- Camera traps installed at vantage points as part of the Forest Department's operation to capture the tiger, which had killed a woman at Hediyala Range in Bandipur Tiger Reserve, have captured the images of two tigers at different spots.

The Forest Department staff have identified one of the tigers as the one which had killed a woman following which night combing operation has been launched to trace and capture the elusive big wild cat.

The Forest staff have also found a cow which was killed by the tiger within 1 km from the spot where the woman was killed sending a message that the tiger is nearby and can be captured soon.

On Nov. 25 at about 11.45 pm, the Forest staff heard the roar of a tiger and when they followed the sound, they found the freshly killed cow near the solar shed at Kalanamanti. The tiger is said to have fled from the spot after hearing the sounds made by the Forest staff.

Yesterday too, the Forest staff heard the tiger roar at about 3 am and another team of Forest personnel rushed to the spot from where the tiger's roar was heard only to find another cattle killed. As this spot is about 2.5 km away from the spot where the woman was killed, the Forest personnel have suspected that it is a different tiger and not the one which had killed the woman.

Taking no chances, the Forest authorities have deployed drones to track the tiger and Forest personnel were stationed near the spot, where the carcass of the cow was found, to identify the tiger based on the stripes and tranquillise it when it comes to devour the carcass. Another team of Forest staff has continued its operation in the surroundings of the spot, where the tiger had killed the woman. The Forest authorities are confident of tracing and capturing the elusive tiger soon.

Yesterday morning, the leopardess, which had come in search of food and water, walked into the cage and was trapped.

The Forest staff, who rushed to the spot, shifted the cage along with the leopardess, following which the Department veterinarian conducted a health check-up, implanted a microchip, cropped a portion of an ear as a mark and later released the leopardess into the forest.

H. Kantharaj urges for implementation of his report

Bengaluru, Nov. 27 (KMS&DM)- Even as for and against groups are engaged in a row over the implementation of H. Kantharaj Commission Report on Socio-Economic Status, popularly known as the Caste Census, former Karnataka Backward Classes Commission Chairman H. Kantharaj, who headed the Commission, has himself urged the Government to accept his report and implement the recommendations.

H. Kantharaj

Addressing press persons yesterday, H. Kantharaj said that his report was scientific, based on the actual status and statistics. Asserting that the original copy of his report has not gone missing, he said the original copy was kept in a room of the office of the Commission which was sealed as a security measure.

Maintaining that all the members of the Commission attended the meetings, he said that, however, the Secretary has not signed the printed copy. Contending that he has nothing to do with reports that the original copy of the report has gone missing, he asserted that the present Chairman of the Commission has no powers to change anything in the original report.

He reiterated that the Government should accept his report in toto and be made public in its originality. Stating that the current Chairman has the power to submit his own report, he said that his was the first Caste Census report after the one held way back in 1931. Though he had sought permission for submission of the report when H.D. Kumaraswamy and B.S. Yediyurappa were in power, he did not get any time for submission, he added.

She leaves behind her husband, two daughters and a host of relatives and friends. Last rites were held at Muktidhama in Vijayanagar 4th Stage this afternoon.

Agrahara Circle slipping into dilapidated condition

Mysuru, Nov. 27 (MTY&DM)- Even as Mysuru is called as the cultural and heritage capital of the State, the official apathy towards maintenance of prominent circles, streets and other public buildings which are listed as heritage centres, has resulted in the century old Agrahara Circle (Madhavarao Circle) in the heart of the city turning dilapidated due to poor maintenance.

The Madhavarao Circle is one of the prominent Circles of city and has a high vehicle density, with thousands of vehicles passing through it every day.

As many as five roads lead from the Circle, which also has a water fountain in it. The fountain has a bust of Lord Shiva installed atop it. The exterior of the Circle is painted with the Tricolour of Indian flag. This unique Circle has now turned into a dilapidated condition due to poor maintenance and utter negligence on the part of the authorities.

The Circle comes under K.R. Assembly Constituency limits and is a part of MCC Ward No. 51. The roads which lead from this Circle are — M.G. Road, Vani Vilas Road, New Sayyaji Rao Road, 101 Ganapathy Temple Road and Thyagaraja Road. These roads connect various prominent localities of the city, with thousands of vehicles passing through it every day. Though the Circle is situated close to the MCC Main Office on Sayyaji Rao Road, official apathy has led the Circle to slip to dilapidated condition. The water fountain, which is the main attraction of the Circle, has become dysfunctional for years. With the Circle, which is a unique one with a bust of lord Shiva becoming an eyesore, the members of the public have demanded the MCC authorities to take up regular maintenance of the Circle.

Meanwhile, KR MLA T.S. Srivatsa, admitting that the Circle has become dilapidated, said that the MCC had earmarked Rs. 50 lakh for the rejuvenation of the Circle. As it was planned to install a traffic signal at the Circle, the rejuvenation works could not be taken up. Due to paucity of funds, it has been decoded to develop the Circle with private partnership. Pointing out that the rejuvenation works will be taken up after the council meeting post the yet to be announced MCC elections, he said that, however, temporary repair works regarding broken grills at the circumference of the Circle will be taken up and painting will be done. The Circle will get a complete facelift in the coming days, he added.

Former Mayor urges MCC to facilitate Khata transfer of sites in J.P. Nagar layouts

Mysuru, Nov. 27 (GA&DM)- Former Mayor B.L. Bhyrappa has urged the MCC to facilitate Khata transfer of sites and other landed properties in layouts which have been formed over 30 years ago.

B.L. Bhyrappa

Addressing a press meet here yesterday, Bhyrappa observed that it was meaningless on the part of the MCC to ask site owners of several layouts to get their properties bifurcated from MUDA, for getting the Khata transfer done. This direction of the MCC has driven over a thousand site owners to a lot of hardship, he added.

Pointing out that residential layouts in J.P. Nagar such as Siddalingeshwara Layout, Revenue Colony and Bank Layout have been formed over 30 years ago, Bhyrappa said that it is wrong on the part of the MCC, which is earning revenues for the past 30 years by stipulating tax, to place hurdles now for Khata transfer of sites and other landed properties in these layouts.

Quoting a Supreme Court ruling which said that those who are living in a site of any classification for over 30 years should be rendered as the owner of the site, he said adding that the MCC should take note of this Supreme Court ruling and allow Khata transfer of sites.

He further wanted to know why the MCC was placing hurdles when the BBMP (Bengaluru Bruhat Mahanagara Palike) has allowed sale of B Khata sites and other landed properties.

PM Modi mentions Chamarajanagar entrepreneur Varsha in 'Mann Ki Baat'

Inspired by PM's words on radio, this M.Tech degree holder started her own organic fertiliser unit

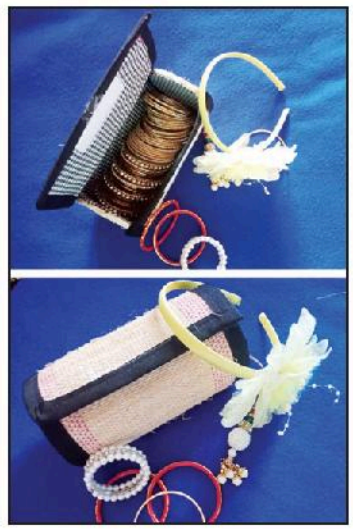
Varsha

PM Modi

Mysuru, Nov. 27 (BCT)- Addressing the nation in his monthly 'Mann Ki Baat' radio programme yesterday, Prime Minister Narendra Modi highlighted the collective efforts of individuals, including Varsha from Chamarajanagar, who is actively involved in producing organic fertilisers.

Modi shared the example of Varsha of Ummathuru village in Chamarajanagar district. She has been making significant contributions to the field of organic farming by producing fertilisers from the trunk or stem of banana plants. PM Modi acknowledged her efforts, stating, "Varsha of Chamarajanagar, inspired by 'Mann Ki Baat', had started the work of making organic fertilisers from banana stem."

The Prime Minister emphasised the impact of 'Mann Ki Baat' in inspiring collective efforts, citing examples like Varsha's initiative. He mentioned, "There are many more examples that show how people got inspired and started their own enterprise." Varsha, motivated by an episode of the programme, initiated the production of organic fertilisers, creating employment opportunities for others.



An array of products made from waste at Varsha's unit.

Edible items too

At Ummathuru village, Varsha operates a small-scale eco-friendly enterprise named Aakruthi Eco-Friendly Enterprises. She utilises local materials, including banana stem fibre, to craft a diverse range of handicrafts, such as carpets, belts, mats, bags, yoga mats and table mats along with organic fertilisers. In addition to handicrafts, Varsha also produces edible items like pickles, juice and candies.

Varsha has not only established her business with a zero-waste management approach to banana plants post-harvest but has also created employment opportunities for many individuals. Her products are available for sale online through various platforms, including e-commerce websites.

Generating employment

Inspired by the aspects highlighted by PM Modi in his 'Mann Ki Baat' programme two years ago, Varsha, who holds an M. Tech degree from Oxford College of Engineering in Bengaluru, initiated her venture with the support of her husband Srikantaswamy, an employee of an IT company in Mysuru.

Despite the responsibilities of supporting her school-going children, Varsha travels more than 45 km from her house in Mysuru to her plantation to take care of her business. Her work is characterised by a profound connection to nature, and the Prime Minister commended her inspiring story and its positive impact on others. "I never expected the PM to mention my name. It is an honour and deeply motivating. I started this as a small unit and now I provide employment to two men and five women," she said.

Mysuru doctor who did 900 illegal abortions arrested

According to the Police, Dr. Tulasiraman's mother was a renowned gynaecologist in Mysuru and he initially worked as a paediatrician at the same hospital. Eventually, he turned abortion services into a side business. Following his mother's demise, he made that a primary business and collaborated with Dr. Chandan Ballal.

Later, Dr. Tulasiraman relocated to Chennai for personal reasons and sold his hospital to Dr. Chandan Ballal. Together, they operated this illicit enterprise. With a regular influx of patients at Udayagiri Mathaa Hospital, the illegal activities were shifted to the Ayurvedic Piles Daycare Centre on Rajkumar Road, the Police added.

Illegal ultrasound scan centre

The suspects took Police to a jaggery-making unit (alemane), at Hosahalli, Mandya, which was also functioning as an ultrasound scan centre. Upon raiding the unit, Police discovered a portable scan machine lacking required authorisation sticker and registration number. The suspects were unable to produce any documents related to the machine.

According to law enforcement authorities, these machines must be registered under a doctor's name and all machines typically come with registered numbers. However, the Police observed that the sticker on this particular machine had been removed.

The Police suspect that the machine was obtained through an electronic goods repairer named Siddesh, who is currently absconding. Siddesh apparently repaired a discarded machine. As per regulations, the device can only be used with authorisation from the District Health Officer (DHO). The Police are investigating how the machine came into the possession of this criminal group.

City Police to expand jurisdiction

Sources told Star of Mysore that the expansion of Mysuru city has resulted in increased population density that requires law enforcement intervention. Expanding Police jurisdiction ensures that law enforcement resources are utilised for better policing.

The present jurisdiction of the Mysuru City Police Commissionerate was formed 40 to 50 years ago and now many places of the expanded city merge with the areas that come under the Rural Police Stations. At present, the Commissionerate oversees 18 Police Stations including Women's Police Station, five Traffic Subdivisions, and one Cyber, Economic and Narcotics (CEN) Police Station.

Adjacent to city boundaries

For instance, Jayapura Police on H.D. Kote Road, Kadakola Police Station limits on Nanjangud Road, Bannur Police limits on Bannur Road and Varuna Police limits on T. Narasipur Road are adjacent to the city boundaries. Infosys in Hebbal and surrounding areas now come under Srirangapatna and KRS Police Station limits in Mandya district though Hebbal comes under Mysuru city. Likewise, Siddalingapura and Kalasthavadi on Mysuru-Bengaluru Expressway come under Srirangapatna Police limits, again in Mandya district.

Rajivnagar, for example, comes under Mysuru City Police and adjacent areas beyond Rajivnagar after the Outer Ring Road come under Mysuru South Rural Station or under Bannur Station or under Varuna Police jurisdiction.

"The city has grown 16 kilometres beyond the originally demarcated jurisdiction with layouts, adjacent to the urban areas. Moreover, whenever a crime or clashes occur in the border areas, there is jurisdictional confusion — whether it is city or district or Mandya. It makes more sense to bring them under the Mysuru City jurisdiction," a senior Police Officer said.

Good infrastructure with city unit

Furthermore, the City Police boast robust infrastructure, a fleet of vehicles and advanced technology. Leveraging their ample resources, including a significant number of officers, enables more effective monitoring of the additional areas.

According to sources, maintaining law and order in rural areas is typically challenging due to issues related to infrastructure and personnel shortages.

A comprehensive plan is underway to expand the jurisdiction to encompass over 20 to 30 villages situated beyond the Ring Road. These areas include developed layouts such as Roopanagar, Bogadi-Jayapura, SBM Layout, Bank Colony, BEML Layout, Airport vicinity, and regions around Mandakalli, Lalithadripura, Yelwal, CFTRI Layout, Bharat Nagar, Kamanakerehundi, Devanur Third Stage, Belavatta, Hebbal, Infosys, Koorgalli, Yelwal, Huyilalu and Bommenahalli.

In the finalisation of the jurisdictional plans, a forward-looking approach considers the next 40 years of Mysuru's development. The ultimate proposal will feature a detailed physical demarcation, complete with coordinates, accompanied by a geographical survey, considerations of population density and an analysis of the nature of the areas (whether they are tech parks, industrial zones or residential areas). The proposed borders will undergo revision and the proposal will be submitted to the Government for Cabinet approval.

WORD OF THE DAY

Inordinate

Pronunciation: in-OR-dun-ut.
Meaning: Something described as inordinate exceeds reasonable limits; it goes beyond what is considered usual, normal, or proper.
Origin: Although today it describes something that exceeds reasonable limits, inordinate used to be applied to what does not conform to the expected or desired order of things. That sense, synonymous with disorderly and unregulated, is no longer in use, but it offers a hint as to the origins of inordinate. The word traces back to the Latin verb ordinare, meaning "to arrange," combined with the negating prefix in-. Ordinare is also the ancestor of such English words as coordination, ordain, ordination, and subordinate. The Latin root comes from the noun ordo, meaning "order" or "arrangement," from which the English word order and its derivatives originate.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

I haven't got a clue

Meaning: Without any knowledge or understanding.
Origin: This little phrase, which is often given as 'I don't have a clue', doesn't at first sight appear to be idiomatic at all and hardly deserving of investigation. After all, a clue is an insight or idea that points us towards a solution. To be without a clue is simply to be ignorant. However, a clue (also spelled clew) previously had a different meaning - a globular ball formed from coiling worms or the like or, more specifically, a ball of thread. Clew has been used with that meaning for at least a thousand years and citations of it in Old English date back to 897AD, when no less an author than Aelfred, King of Wessex used it in his West-Saxon translation of Gregory's Pastoral Care. Shakespeare also used the word with the 'thread' meaning, for example, in All's Well that Ends Well, 1602: "If it be so, you have wound a goodly clewe." That seems a long way from crossword clues or Sherlock Holmes' stories. How did we get from a ball of thread to the current meaning of clue? Go back to Greek myth and recall the tale of Theseus and the Minotaur. Theseus entered the labyrinth to kill the half-man, half-bull Minotaur. He did so but was only able to find his way out by retracing his path, marked by the string given to him by Ariadne. So, Theseus 'had a clew' about the safe route out of the maze and was able to escape.
